

Single and Loving It

Colossians 2:6

Purpose: To fix my mind that I can have fellowship with God and fellowship with each another.

Goal: that I will become single.

My STATUS is unmarried. My GOAL is to be single.

It is essential that I become single because no matter what state I'm in. It is my singleness that will keep me whole

Single means to be complete.

Deuteronomy chapter 30:15

1. CHOICES

The quality of my life will be determined by my choices.

The quality of your life will not exceed the quality of my choices.

The fulfillment of my life will not exceed the quality of my choices.

My choices are preeminent to everything.

My choices are preeminent even to the will of God.

My choice is more powerful in the natural realm than the will of God.

Choices are made with my will. My divine center of choice. Choices are long lasting and life changing.

I only have the power of choice, I don't carry the power of consequences

The built in judgement of God is solid

Good choices are made out being people of good principles.

If I want to be successful in the unmarried state I'm going to have to be a person of principles. Principles are a guideline for life.

The Holy Ghost is my guide, but principles are my guidelines.

The stronger principles I have, the more successful I can be in my choices.

2. Character

The next thing is integrity.

Character is the personality of my life that will determine how I am regarded.

Integrity is who I am. Integrity is the real me down on the inside.

Integrity is not called into question until it is put under extreme pressure.

Integrity will determine what kind of stand I'm going to take in life.

I must allow my character to be seen and my integrity to be present at all times.

A standard is character and integrity I can't separate the two.

I'm a person of character and people can see it.

I'm a person of integrity and I know it.

1 Corinthians 15:57

3. Consistency

To be steadfast I must know what I believe and how I believe it.

The word unmovable means I am unable to be shaken in the place where I am.

Faithfulness is a time tested attribute.
